

For Men Who Own Horses.

From the N. Y. Mail and Express.

Never wash a horse with cold water when he is heated.

On the farm dispense with shoes, unless the land is very rocky.

Feed your horses regularly three times daily, but never over-feed.

Water before feeding, but not while the horse is hot from work.

Use the whip very little, and never when the animal shies or stumbles.

Never leave horses standing unhitched. It is the way to make them runaways.

Do not storm and fret. Be quiet and kind, and the horses will be so too, in most cases.

Give the horses a large stall and a good bed at night. It is important that he lie down to rest.

If a horse is vicious and unmanageable at your business, sell it to some one that can control him.

Hay or other ground feed is indispensable, and ground corn or hominy is better than whole corn.

A cotton-card is one of the best instruments for grooming a horse. It cleans better than the comb.

Do not expect your horses to be equally good at everything. The horse, like the man, must be adapted to his work.

Near the close of a journey let the horses walk. If covered with sweat rub off with a rag to prevent too sudden cooling.

Collar galls and bruises are benefited by washing with salt water. Wash shoulders daily when using the horse. Brine is good also for stiff joints.

When flies are bad wash the horses all over lightly with a weak solution of carbolic acid. If you have not the acid, apply sturgeon's oil on the flanks, neck and tender parts.

Hints to Housekeepers.

Relieve pains in the side by the application of mustard.

For nose bleeding, get plenty of powdered alum up into the nostrils.

Sandpaper applied to the yellow keys of the piano will restore the color.

To polish nickel-plated goods after becoming black and not worn, use rouge or whiting on a rag with a little oil.

Broken limbs should be placed in a natural position and the patient kept quiet until help arrives.

For coffee stains try putting thick glycerine on the wrong side and wash it out with lukewarm water. For raspberry stains weak ammonia and water is the best.

To make apple water, cut the apples in small pieces and pour over them boiling water. Strain in three hours and sweeten. This makes a refreshing drink for an invalid.

Lemons can be kept in good condition for a long time by putting them in a tight cask and covering with water. They must be kept in a cool place, and water should be changed every other day.

To remove cinders from stoves, place a few oyster shells in the grate while the fire is burning, and the cinders will at once become loosened and may be readily removed without injuring the lining.

Coffee pounded in a mortar and roasted on an iron plate, sugar burned on hot coals, and vinegar boiled with myrrh and sprinkled on the floor and furniture of a sick room are excellent deodorizers.

To insure paste from moulding, put into it a proportion of alum and resin. A few drops of any essential oil will preserve leather from mould, and a single clove put into a bottle of ink will have the same effect upon it.

HOME MADE FERTILIZER.

An Ohio farmer, writing to the National Stockman, tells how his poultry increased his wheat yield five to ten bushels per acre.

In the fall after corn is set in shock, when the ground is dry, I gather three or four loads of the richest and finest soil to be found in the corn field and put it under cover to be used in the winter.

Once a week the droppings are gathered from the poultry house and put in a dry place, where they are covered with about half as much dirt as there is droppings.

This dries them out and prevents the escape of ammonia. This is turned over a few times during the summer to thoroughly mix and dry. Then it is sifted to take out any feathers or straws that might choke the drill. Now it is ready for use and can be put in with any drill that has a phosphate attachment, as well as any of the commercial fertilizers, and will give as good results in both wheat and grass, with only about one-fourth the expense. About one barrel per acre is what seems to give the best results at my place. My little boy ten year old, sifts six barrels a day and has some time to play. I have tried the above for several years and I think it pays me well for the feed the poultry consume.
